Are you mindful of low overheads when hauling your loads?

Most professional drivers are always on the lookout for low overpasses, awnings at customer sites, and other overhead obstructions that can ruin their day. But every now and then we hear about scrap recycling vehicles that try to become shorter the hard way.

It's not enough to be aware of other traffic, speed limits, road signs, and what's in your mirrors. Drivers always need to be mindful of obstructions that are all around the truck...left, right, up and down! Pay attention to details!
